

ABSTRACT

Methods for altering the regulation of follicular development and ovulation by modulating cytoskeletal genes and gene products are disclosed. More particularly, β -tubulin, tropomyosin-4 and kinesin heavy chain are used to control follicular development and/or the ovulation cycle.